

OTN Systems selects Hydra to improve its project management & reporting

OTN systems selected Hydra after considering other products as they were impressed with Hydra's ability to link multiple projects and resources easily and efficiently. Within one week the Hydra system was installed, project management staff trained and up and running for a number of projects.

Geert Verbanck, OTN's Vice President R&D Program Management said "Our criteria was for a solution that enabled us to solve our project and capacity planning issues by providing us with a clear view of our portfolio of projects, as well as enabling us to easily see the impact on our existing workloads and resources when new projects are introduced"

Geert Verbanck continued, "Hydra provides us with a high level view of our future workload and as a result, we are able to quickly re prioritise project plans and update our entire portfolio view"

He continued, "We were already aware of Hydra's effectiveness and had previously seen Hydra being used successfully within Nikon Metrology NV (a large European Engineering Business) and were impressed with the results that had been achieved at that organisation through the use of Hydra"

He concluded "We are delighted to be working with both the product and company and look forward to improving our project and resource usage by using Hydra"

Sanjay Gandhi, Director of HML said "We are pleased that OTN Systems – the most powerful multiplexer for large, private environments – has installed Hydra quickly and easily and will receive benefits to project delivery and resource management. Our focus is on ensuring that our customers are up and running quickly and receive payback in 6 months or less"
